

Claire de Lune—This striking pendant evokes the sensuality of an ancient corset. A simple monochromatic silk cord ensures that all the attention is focused on the main attraction.

Exotic Idea—A heavy application of shoe polish yielded deep brown tones. Although only black, white, and translucent polymer clay were used, the shoe polish brought out rich color to highlight the circles and dots.

Hope's Jubilation—One of my favorite design elements is intrigue. The white bead with large black circles peeking out from the bead caps in the focal element adds to the charm of this piece by engaging the viewer with a question "What's hidden in here?"
